Description

We are all different and we all resonate differently to colours, sounds and words. At your initial consultation we will complete the registration form and discuss your emotions, feelings thoughts and needs. From this we can discuss the way forward to help you achieve your desired outcome. It should be noted that although you may wish to work on particular subject, our subconscious has a way of bringing to the fore what s to be worked on. More often than not this actually del with your former issue. There are no guarantees that this work will clear your issues. How deep rooted your beliefs and emotions are buried and how thy are attached to other feelings may affect how we work and how long it may take to achieve your best outcome. I always work at your speed and allow time between appointments for the energies to work and settle.
